

Maps on the Hill

February 29, 2012

gis.utah.gov/mapsonthehill

Maps on the Hill

February 29, 2012

Each year maps and geospatial applications are used in government, business, and education for a wide variety of applications. This event provides an opportunity for mapping professionals and students to share their hard work with Utah's elected leaders. Maps on the Hill showcases the role geospatial information plays at all levels of decision making.

Maps on the Hill 2012 has attracted map makers from all backgrounds including local, state, and federal government, private companies, and higher education.

The event is organized by the Utah Geographic Information Council (UGIC) in cooperation with the State of Utah's Automated Geographic Reference Center (AGRC) and the Utah Geological Survey (UGS) at the Department of Natural Resources.

More information: gis.utah.gov/mapsonthehill

- Who: Mapping professionals and students
- When: February 29, 2012, 10am-1pm
- Where: Utah State Capitol Rotunda
- What: Printed and interactive maps from a variety of backgrounds including government, business, and education.